GLENN C. SALVA Wine Estate Manager

Glenn C. Salva is responsible for all winegrowing activities at Antinori Napa Valley. The Antinori Family's Napa Valley wine estate represents the realization of a long-standing desire of Pero Antinori and is also a milestone in the production of great Antinori Family wines outside of their native home of Tuscany, Italy. Glenn assumed the role of Wine Estate Manager in December 2002 and now brings over thirty-five years of Napa Valley winegrowing experience to his responsibilities at Antinori Napa Valley.

The Antinori Family of Florence, Italy has been making wine for over six hundred years. Throughout its long history, spanning 26 generations, the family has always personally managed the wine business based on their historical vineyards in Tuscany and Umbria.

In 1985 the Antinori Family purchased a beautiful estate in the Napa Valley. The Antinori Family was attracted to this spectacular property located on a high plateau in the Atlas Peak District because of its ideal winegrowing potential; its rocky soils, high elevations, and beautiful landscape. Today, there are 550 acres of vineyard planted on the estate. The wines of Antinori Napa Valley are estate grown and estate produced.

In addition to his Antinori Napa Valley responsibilities, Glenn also supports other Antinori wine ventures located in the New World. In Washington State, Antinori along with Ste. Michelle Wine Estates produces Col Solare in the Red Mountain AVA. Antinori and Ste. Michelle Wine Estates together manage and produce the wines of Stag's Leap Wine Cellars also located in Napa Valley.

Glenn earned his Bachelor of Science degree from Cornell University in 1976 where he majored in Viticulture.
